BUREAU OF ELECTRONIC & APPLIANCE REPAIR, HOME FURNISHINGS & THERMAL INSULATION

The Bureau of Electronic & Appliance Repair, Home Furnishings & Thermal Insulation (BEARHFTI/Bureau) is the regulatory agency, under the California Department of Consumer Affairs, that oversees the licensing and inspection of businesses that sell upholstered furniture and bedding products to California consumers. BEARHFTI enforces the Home Furnishings and Thermal Insulation Act, which requires all upholstered furniture and bedding products meet certain flammability standards and labeling requirements before they can be offered for sale to consumers.

STATE REGISTRY NUMBERS

BEARHFTI issues a registry number to manufacturers, custom upholsterers, and supply dealers when they are licensed. The registry number is used to identify the business that manufactured the product and the business' location. Consumers can look up the registry number on the Bureau's website www.bearhfti.ca.gov/enforcement/lookup.shtml to obtain manufacturing information.

LABELING REQUIREMENTS

Articles of upholstered furniture and bedding must be properly labeled before they can be offered for sale. Labels must be securely attached to the product and easily visible at the point of sale. For all labels required by BEARHFTI, the size of the label must be a minimum of 2" x 3" and the type must be in black ink and a minimum of 1/8" in size.

LAW LABELS

Every article of upholstered furniture and bedding products must have a law label to identify the manufacturer, their location, and the filling materials that were used during the making of the product. White law labels are used for products made with new material, red law labels are used for products made with secondhand material, and green law labels are used for products made with the consumers' own material. This is an example of a law label for upholstered furniture with new material:

FLAMMABILITY LABEL AND FLAME RETARDANT CHEMICAL STATEMENT

In addition to a law label, flammability labels must be attached to upholstered furniture products to describe which flammability standard it meets. Products meeting Technical Bulletin 117-2013 must also have the flammability chemical statement on the label. The flammability chemical statement describes whether articles used to make the product contains flame retardant chemicals. This is an example of a flammability label for products that meet Technical Bulletin 117-2013:

NOTICE

THIS ARTICLE MEETS THE FLAMMABILITY REQUIREMENTS OF

AND APPLIANCE REPAIR, HOME

The upholstery materials in this product:

contain added flame retardant chemicals contain NO added flame retardant chemicals

The State of California has updated the flammability standard and determined that the fire safety requirements for this product can be met without adding flame retardant chemicals. The State has identified many flame retardant chemicals as being known to, or strongly suspected of, adversely impacting human health or development.

If consumers want to check if furniture is free of added flame retardant chemicals, they can ask the retailers to show them this label. Retailers are obligated to tip furniture or take other steps to make sure consumers can see this label.
